Ways parents can help their kids succeed at school

Display a positive attitude toward learning
Children look to their parents as behavioural models, especially when it comes to learning. If parents don’t seem to value learning, children pick up on that, and it affects the way they approach school. Academically accomplished children are those who are eager to learn -- and that may stem from seeing a parent display a natural curiosity and passion for learning.

Autism Spectrum Australia (Aspect) is proud to announce the launch of a world first website just for young people with autism and their families. Launchpad <http://enews.autismspectrum.org.au/link/id/zzzz5542d83b153f8387/page.html> has been created for teenagers and young people aged 16 and over. It covers all the topics they need to know as they transition from school to adult life. These include study, work, health, social life, learning to drive, independent living and how to be a good self advocate.

The transition from school is a crucial time in any young adult’s life and is especially challenging for young people on the autism spectrum. Young people and their families have been significantly under-resourced until now. Launchpad has separate sections for young people and parents throughout each topic. This allows the website to be useful to all people on the spectrum, whatever their strengths and weaknesses. Launchpad has been created by Aspect and is funded by Ageing, Disability and Home Care NSW.

Playing our part to build a national picture of child health

In early 2015, our school, along with thousands of others across the country will begin preparations for the third Australian Early Development Census (AEDC).

The AEDC measures five key areas of development in children during their first year of full-time school to build a national picture of health and wellbeing. Since 2009, the census results have helped communities, schools and governments plan services and target support for children and families.

Teachers are trained to assess each child and answer questions. Children don’t need to be present so no class time is missed, and parents/carers don’t need to supply schools with any new information for the census. Teachers’ individual assessments are then analysed by the AEDC and reported as anonymous groups of children in the final report.

In other communities across the country, census results have helped communities to plan new playgrounds and parental services; schools are seeing improved student performance through new literacy programmes; and governments are using the results as evidence to develop better policies for children.

Teachers have also noticed practical benefits in the classroom. Some said in previous years that completing the assessments made them more aware of the needs of individual children and the class as a whole. Others reported that the census results are useful in planning for transitions to school and for developing class programmes.

Participation in the AEDC is voluntary. Parents/carers don’t need to take any action unless they choose not to include their children in the census.

To find out more about the census and how communities are using the data to help children and families visit the AEDC website www.aedc.gov.au

I hope to have a final list of those students who have qualified for Zone, Primary in Ardlethan on July 24 (early Term 3) and Secondary in Coolamon in week 7 of this term, on June 5. I will also try to have some practice sessions on days I’m free or during Sport time. We will also need to work out relay teams, based on the results from the 100m races.

A massive thank you to Mrs Tubb and Mr Waide, without whose preparation prior to the carnival would not have seen such a great day. Also, to the teachers and students who officiated, the parents who also helped with time-keeping, etc, the P and C for a brilliant canteen and you, the students, who make all the work and worry so worthwhile.

Netball

Tomorrow, May 19, sees our PSSA Netball team travel to Temora to play the second round of this knockout. Good luck to Paige, Charlotte, Jane, Annabelle and Melissa. On Friday, Paige Kenny travels to Wagga for the final selection trials for the Riverina Netball Team, good luck to Paige.

Next Wednesday, May 27, the school’s Open Netball Team travels to Leeton to compete in the Central Schools Carnival, with a trip to Dubbo waiting if we can finish 1st or 2nd on the day. I will be going as Team Manager for the team. Good luck girls.

Tennis

Next Monday, May 25, our PSSA Tennis team plays in round 3 of this knockout, after defeating Young by 6 sets to 2 in the second round. The games will probably be played in Wagga (TBC). Good luck to Paige, Jake, Norm and Jane.

Mortimer Shield Rugby League

There is a chance this will be played on Thursday, May 21 but I haven’t received further invitations to play at this stage. I will inform parents ASAP if this goes ahead. Good luck to everyone on their sporting endeavours for the next couple of weeks.
